JUVENILE COURT LAW DEFINED

Judge Howell Says it Was Intended for the Salvation, Not Punishment of Minors.

ROSE ROLLEY CASE DECISION.

Whatever Their Derelictions or Crimes Juvenile Offenders Can Only be sent to Industrial School.

Ogden, Feb. 5.-Judge Howell has rendered an important opinion in the ease of N. J. Harris, county attorney, igainst Municipal Judge J. D. Murphy, in which he upholds the defendant in refusing to hear the case of the state against Rose Rolley, a girl 17 years of age, who is charged with stealing $500 from N. O. Ogden company, Judge Murphy, before whom the complaint vas sworn out against the girl, transwas sworn out against the girl, transyeared the case to the juvenile court, for want of jurisdiction, because of
for want of jurisdiction, because of her being under 18 years of age. The county attorney filed an application for with of mandate to compel Judge Murphy to hold the preliminary examnation of Miss Rolley. The decision of ludge Howell is sweeping in its effect, haking it impossible to punish any person under the age of 18 years within the State of Utah for any crime, with a greater punishment than a commitment to the state industrial school, and that power alone is vested in the juvemile judge.

After reviewing the circumstances of the case at issue and the law, Judge Howell says:

of the case at issue and the law, Judge Howell says:
"The court is, therefore, driven to the conclusion that no court except the forenile court has jurisdiction over Rose Rolley (it being admitted that she is under 18 years of age), though she is sharged with grand larceny and that the defendant, as a committing magistrate, could do but as he did—transfer the case against her to the juvenile court." And speaking of the purpose and scope of the juvenile court law, the court quotes from a former decision, in which he says:

and scope of the juvenile court law, the court quotes from a former decision, in which he says;

"Evidently the idea of the legislature was not to provide a special punishment for offenders against the law who are minors, but rather was it intended that such offender should escape the punishment which would be meted out to elder offenders. The legislative intended that such offender should be meted out to elder offenders. The legislative intent was that instead of punishing minors who had violated the law, they should be saved from such punishment. The salvation rather than the punishment of delinquent children might have been the title of the act."

There are now confined in the county fall five or six boys charged with robbery and burgiary, to which they have made most startling confessions of their bold criminal workings in Ogden. Most of them are under age, hence unser the ruling of Judge Howell the only punishment that can be meted out to hem is confiement at the reform school until 21 years of age.

SPRINGVILLE.

SNOWSLIDE DOES DAMAGE.

Light Plant Out of Commission-Teachers' Art Day.

Springville, Feb. 4.—Heavy rains and rioudburt in Hobblecreek canyon have washed out a section of the electric power plant causal, which will throw the city in darkness for several days, while repairs are being made. The loss to the tity will be upwards of $5,000.

There is more moisture in the earth than was ever known in the history of Springville before, from the late thaw of soow and rainfall of the past few days, and still it rains.

Sunday evening Prof. E. S. Hinckley of the B. Y. U., Provo, addressed the M. I. Macdations of Springville, the Robinson Bros.' quartet gave a number of elections, all of which were much appreciated.

The request was granted. The county clerk was instructed to have the 1906 financial report of the county published in pamphlet form at a cost of $32 for 200 copies. He was also authorized to purchase from the Skelton Publishing corps of his decorating and art students, visited Springville schools, and left on the black boards of the Washington school some fine pieces of art with crayon; many teachers from the south end of the county also joined in the visit, and spent a pieasant day with the visitors and Springville teachers. A chicken dinner was served in the Second ward meetinghouse to the visitors and general public.

BURIAL OF MATHIAS GILLIS. Mathias Gillis, the well known con-tractor and builder, who died last Fri-day morning, was laid peacefully to rest in the Mountain View cemetery yesterday.

The funeral services were held at the St. Joseph's Catholic church, Rev. Father John Ryan conducted the same and preached a beautiful eulogy referring to the deceased as an honest And Much Damage is Feared.

Ogden, Feb. 5.—Unless the heavy rains cease for a few days at least giving the water a chance to soak into the ground serious damage will result to property in Ogden. Already the Ogden and Weber rivers are very high, taxing the banks in places, and some of the residences, barns and other buildings along the banks are in danger of being swept away if the waters continue to raise as they have done the past 48 hours. The gutters are filled with streams of water and the sewers are all carrying off great streams. Some of the business houses have already taken precautions to prevent the floods from getting into their basements. Near Madison avenue and Twenty-eighth street the large gulch which for years has been a water way for the surplus water of the bench is now filled to within a few feet of the large dam put across Madson avenue. Should this body of water increase sufficient to flow over the bank a number of houses would be seriously damaged as well as considerable property.

Perhaps the most damage from the referring to the deceased as an honest man, a true Christian, progressive businessman, loving husband and father.

The Knights of Columbus, Builders' Exchange and Weber club members attended the funeral, also many relatives and friends. The casket was covered with beautiful floral tributes. Besides the music furnished by the ward choir Miss May Conroy sang "Ava Marie."

Deceased was the son of Andrew and Martha A. McKensey Simer, was born in Kentucky, Sept. 20. 1849, making him over 57 years of age. Several of his sons are in other parts of the state. Until they are heard from the time and place of funeral will not be fixed.

DAMAGE SUIT FILED.

The Utah Light & Railway company has been made defendant in a damage suit brought by Mrs. Kathryn Lacy, to recover $2,000 alleged to be due for the death of her husband. The complaint alleges that James Lacy was employed July 12, 1906, as lineman for the Light company and was working on a pole on Washington avenue and Seventeenth street stringing some wires. That while so working he came in contact with a live wire and was electrocuted. That the said accident was caused by the carelessness and negligence of the company.

the bank a number of houses would be seriously damaged as well as considerable property.

Perhaps the most damage from the heavy storm has occurred in Ogden canyon where several snow and land slides have taken place, carrying many tons of dirt and rock into the roadbed, making travel from Ogden valley to the city impossible. The road supervisors of the valley together with a large force of men and teams were put to work at the head of the canyon to clear away the debris from the slides and sheriff Sebring with his deputies and a force of men are hard at work from the first slide near the old sawmill trying toget the road opened up for travel. The commissioners have great fear of the bridges in Ogden valley being damaged or perhaps swept away if the water in the river continues to raise. Every precaution is being taken to prevent further damage. Some of the streets in the lower part of the city are almost like swimming ponds.

WEBER COUNTY AFFAIRS. MUSICALE AT TABERNACLE. Considering the inclemency of the weather last evening a fairly good audience assembled at the tabernacle to hear the musicale given by the Ogden tabernacle choir under the direction of Prof. Joseph Ballantyne, assisted by Prof. John J. McClellan, organist, and Miss Myrtle Ballinger, soprano soloist. The program consisted of three choruses by the choir, two solos by Miss Ballinger and nine numbers on the organ by Prof. McClellan. Each number was received with rounds of applause indicating the appreciation of the audience. Miss Ballinger possesses a very sweet soprano volce with good volume, which charmed those who were fortunate enough to be present last evening.
